COMMONS OF CANADA.

A Short Peep into the House of Commons.

Different Leading Representatives—Odd Customs.

If your readers would like to take a peep into the House of Commons let them accompany me to the Chamber through the long cool corridors by which it is reached. It is not necessary to utter any magic pass word or secret clasp of the hand, for the doors fly open as we approach by the not unseen agency of sundry belabelled door-keepers, who seem, by the solemn dignity of their bearing to be fully conscious of the importance of their office. We pass numerous oil paintings of defunct members, mostly with lugubrious countenances and powdered wigs, and would certainly create a sensation and no doubt astonish themselves could they just step down from their gold gilt frames, a la Ruddygore, amongst us of this degenerate age. Ah! here we are at the Chamber. Not much to look at, anyway, I think I hear you say, and very much like an overgrown school-room, with its long rows of desks, bearing marks of rough use. The windows are beautifully stained, however, and that is a fine life-sized portrait of Her Gracious Majesty which hangs at the south end, and the ladies in the Speaker's gallery are a pretty bit of light coloring. In fact, by the mellowing shades of the incandescent light the old House looks fairly well. Now the members came dropping in; a large, handsome man, looking positively majestic in his flowing silk robes, takes his green-covered velvet chair, the mace, emblem of royalty—it is only silver really, thus fulfilling the proverb that "all is not gold that glitters"—is nicely adjusted on its little pillow on the green-felt covered table; the Sergeant-at-Arms marches to his seat by the door, having miraculously saved himself from tripping over the absurdly useless sword dangling at his side, that will keep getting mixed up with his legs; the clerk of the House and his assistant, all begowned, take their places at the table, the pretty little uniformed pages dart hither and thither at various calls from the members or repose gracefully on the green steps leading to the Speaker's chair; the electric bell rings, the public plays catch-as-catch-can for best places in the gallery, and the House is open.

THE SPEAKER,

When the House opens in the afternoon the public are excluded until prayers are over, it being well known that Parliament requires all its prayers for itself. So this is our Commons. Yes; there is radiant in his inevitable scarlet necktie and buttonhole boquet. You may notice his nose is much as represented by Grip, also that he keeps up an eternal wagging of his right foot, which is calculated to drive a nervous on looker insane. The Clerk of the House, too, has this exceedingly comfortable habit. The fair, fat and rather severe-looking gentleman next him is Sir Charles Tupper. That modern Beau Brummel who is struggling with one eyeglass, and showing a beautiful set of teeth in the agony consequent thereon, is Sir Adolph Caron You will observe him also by the expanse of brown Lisle thread sock he invariably exposes. The comfortable looking little Frenchman next him is Sir Hector Langevin. There Mr.

BLAKE'S GRAND PHYSIOGNOMY

and very much beruffled hair looms up. Here is Mr. Laurier's statuesque face, which can light up so quickly and wonderfully, the soul of the man shining through like a light through a Parian marble vase, and here and there those men whose names, at least, are familiar in most every Canadian home. Taking it on the whole, the Commons is very unimposing. The majority of the members are very ordinary looking men, for the most part very shabbily or mutidily dressed, and two-thirds of them bald, some of them without a single hair 'twixt them and Heaven. You see a great many of them retain their hats in their seats, although if one of them attempts to move around the chamber thus, the cries of "order" that arise from the others is ear-splitting, and is apt to make the culprit jerk off his offending hat in a hurry. Mr. Landerkin compromises by wearing a brilliantly embroidered smoking cap, which, when set askew (as it usually is), gives that gentleman a rakish look ludicrously out of keeping with his dignified appearance. The small gallery suspended between the public gallery and the Speaker's chair belongs to the

POOR BEGGARS OF JOURNALISTS,

who sit in what an English writer terms their "airy supremacy," all the weary hours, without room to even stretch their feet out, and descending stairs so narrow and dark that it is precisely like going up and down a barrel. It is fortunate that the reporters are of a sterner sex, as those stairs admit of no room for feminine flummeries, and the average woman would get stuck half way. You think this parade of gowned officials and gilded mace exceedingly ridiculous. Well, so do I. It always makes me laugh when I see the Sergeant-at-Arms, of funereal aspect, gravely take the mace in his black-gloved hands and bob it under the table when the House goes into committee and as gravely jerk it up again when committee is over. I wonder what would be done if the mace were destroyed in some unexpected manner. But the catastrophe is TOO AWFUL TO CONTEMPLATE.

Now the members are speaking, Sir John with his "er—hum—ah—" nodding his head at every syllable, Mr. Blake see-sawing on his feet, and poor Mr. Pope ekeing out his morsel of speech with the most remarkable gesticulations, as though he were in deep water and was energetically swimming out. Some of the members speak with their hands in their pockets, others pull at their desks or finger their watch chains, nearly all have some individual peculiarity. You hear some one saying a great deal about the "ne-cessairie dev-il-ope-ment." Bless you, no Frenchman ever pronounces necessary and development in any other way, and that awful jargon you hear now, which is neither French nor English, or a possible mixture of both, is a bill or motion being read by the Assistant Clerk of the House, who from his utter incapacity to read anything intelligibly, has seemingly been appointed (at a good fat salary) to a post requiring the most reading in the House. What a satire on wisdom in giving office! Now, there is a member actually attempting to address the House! Does the man mean to burst up the constitution?

Now, a great deal of talking has been done, but very little said. I see the Premier and Sir Hector Langevin

SIDE BY SIDE ASLEEP,

Sir John with his arms folded, head bent and brows puckered as though his dreams were of harsh debate. Sir Hector's bald head is thrown back, he is sleeping as placidly as a child after a good supper, with no pretence of being awake. Many others are dozing, too, for the hour is late and the debate dreary. Now the House is in committee the back-bench members are holding forth. Mr. Mills and Mr. Laurier are always awake and alert, but as we, too, are growing weary of viewing Parliament and Parliamentarians, don't you think we had better go home?

ANGLICAN SYNOD.

Proceedings of the Diocese Synod—Officers and Committees Appointed.

At the meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia last Wednesday the following gentlemen were appointed to the offices named:

Clerical Secretary to the Synod—the Ven Archdeacon Scriven, B. A.

Lay Secretary to the Synod—M. W. T. Drake, Q.C.

Treasurer to the Synod—H. E. Crosdaile, Esq.

Auditors—W. C. Ward and R. Harvey, Esqs.

His Lordship Bishop Hills delivered a lengthy and highly instructive address in which he reviewed the work of the church within the diocese for the past year. Allusion was made to the gratifying increase close upon $2,000 to the sums subscribed for church purposes during that period; also in the still more gratifying increase in the number of communicants, and also in the number of baptisms, confirmations, etc., etc., all of which improvements showed the advance made by the church in this province. The Bishop also briefly sketched the progress that had been made during the Victorian era by the Church of England, and especially by those branches of the church in the United States and in the Colonies. He supported these statements by some very interesting statistics.

Reference was also made to the fact that the present year besides being the Jubilee of our Gracious Queen was also the centenary of the consecration of the first colonial bishop (Bishop Inglis of Nova Scotia) in 1787.

At the conclusion of His Lordship's address, the election of executive committee by ballot was proceeded with, the result of which was as follows:

Clerical Members: Revs A Beanlands, B A; G W Taylor, J A Leakey, B A; W W Bolton, M A, and H Howitt.

Lay Members: Hon J W Trutch, C M G; Drs Hannington and Harrison, J H Innes and W C Ward, Esqs.

A committee, consisting of the Ven Archdeacon Scriven, Dr Praeger, Messrs M W T Drake, Q C; J Holmes, R Musgrave, W C Ward and H E Crosdaile, was appointed to carry out the scheme of the Jubilee Sustentation fund.

The Rev C J Brenton, Lt-Col Wolfenden and Mr R Harvey were appointed a committee to promote the Widows and Orphans' fund.

The Chancellor of the Diocese, Mr M W T Drake, Q C, moved that a loyal address be tendered to Her Majesty on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of her coronation. The motion was seconded by the Archdeacon of Vancouver and carried unanimously.

One of the most urgent subjects brought forward for the consideration of the Synod was the formation of a Sustentation fund or General Endowment fund for the Diocese. The urgent need of immediate steps in this direction was insisted on by the Diocesan Treasurer and many others, and the committee above named was formed to take up the matter in which a commencement has already been made by the Jubilee collection now in progress.

Resolutions having reference to the mode of payment of the country clergy were introduced by the Rev. George W. Taylor and discussed. Eventually one was passed providing that in future all payments by the people towards the stipends of their pastors should be paid through the medium of the diocesan treasurer.

Mr. R. E. Jackson persistently advocated the claims of Sooke for the services of the church, and it was the general opinion of the Synod that an effort should be made to provide that district with at least a monthly Sunday service.

Many other subjects of interest were also under discussion, and after a vote of thanks to the bishop a useful and interesting session was concluded by the members rising and saying the Te-Deum.

A JUBILEE ADDRESS

Passed by the Anglican Synod of British Columbia and Forwarded to Her Majesty.

Following is the full text of the Jubilee address adopted by the Synod of Diocese of British Columbia:

To Her Majesty Victoria, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen Defender of the Faith, Empress of India:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY:

We the British Clergy and Laity of the Diocese of British Columbia, in Synod assembled, beg leave to approach Your Majesty with respectful assurance of loyalty to YOUR Majesty's throne and person. We desire to offer to Your Majesty our hearty congratulations upon the completion of the fiftieth year of Your Majesty's most happy reign, and to accord our thankfulness of Almighty God for the many blessings, temporal and spiritual, which have marked this period of our country's history. More especially are we grateful for the blessings which have been vouchsafed to our mother church of England, for her renewed life at home and for her marvellous growth in the colonies and dependencies subject to your Majesty's rule. We trust that in this distant part of your Majesty's dominions, the church may ever be found to promote true and sound religion; and we desire to express our deep sense of the blessing we enjoy in having for our Sovereign so conspicuous an example of piety and virtue as your Majesty. We earnestly pray that Almighty God will bestow upon your Majesty all good gifts, and that He will continue to us and our fellow subjects, for many years, the blessings which we owe to your Majesty's just and beneficent sway.

New Superintendent.

J. W. Lecoard, of Toronto, has been appointed Superintendent of one of the SOUTH SAANICH SCHOOL.

School Examination at East Road, South Saanich.

The above examination was held at the school house by Mr. R. L. Fraser, the teacher, yesterday. A large number of the parents and visitors were present, filling the house, among whom were Mrs Mitchell, Miss Mitchell, Mrs and Miss Holden, Mrs Thos Harrison, Sandover, Bryant, G Harrison, Mrs Turgoose, Alexander, Young, Sluggett, Mrs Richardson, Marcott, Miss Heard, Spotts, Rowden, Trustees Heard, Mitchell and John, Messrs Wm Harrison, Spotts, Alexander and others. Thirty-four pupils attended, prettily and well dressed, whose proficiency and deportment reflects great credit on their teacher, who has evidently taken great pains to bring them up to the standard they showed to-day after a strict examination. At the close Trustees Mitchell and Heard, and Messrs. Harrison, Alexander and Spotts made short addresses to the scholars, wishing them pleasant holidays, especially for the jubilee. Trustee Mitchell then presented Mr. Fraser with a handsome present from a former pupil. After the National Anthem was sung Mr. Wm Harrison proposed a vote of thanks and three cheers for Mr. Fraser, which was carried and responded to unanimously.

Following is the award of prizes:

Provincial Roll of Honor—Alice Maud Holden, proficiency; Josephine Ray, deportment; Annie Turgoose, punctuality and regularity.

Special prize for spelling granted to Bell Harrison, 4th class; Wesley Heard, 3rd class.

Special prize presented by Mr. H. D. Helmcken for head of school, Alice Maud Holden.

Special prize presented by Mr. H. D. Helmcken for the most popular pupil in school, Fannie Thomson.

The above was decided by votes of the pupils, Fannie Thomson getting one more vote than Ben Harrison. Small books were presented to all the rest of the pupils.

CLINTON ASSIZES.

(Before Mr. Justice Walkem.)

Court met Monday, June 13. Ah Chung and Nai Lip, charged with entering the house of Mr. Place of Dog Creek and stealing $900 in notes and gold dust, were found guilty, and sentenced, Ah Chung to four years and Nai Lip to two years imprisonment. Mr. Place recovered about $5.00 of the stolen money. Mr. McColl for the Crown. The prisoner Nai Lip was defended by Mr. Bole.

Two Chinamen were found guilty of stealing 900 pounds of flour and sentenced to 18 months each.

Wing Chong vs. Caspar Phair. This was action against Sheriff Phair for wrongfully seizing the plaintiff's goods at Dog Creek under a writ of execution against another party. The action was tried before a special jury summoned by the coroner, who found verdict for the plaintiff for $707. Mr. Fell for plaintiff; Mr. McColl for defendant.

Canadians in the Golden State.

Mr. A. J. Wallace, of the real estate firm of Wallace Bros., Pasadena, Cal., was a passenger by the San Francisco steamer to-day. Mr. Wallace is a native of Pilkington, Co. Wellington, Ont, but has resided for some time in Pasadena, where he has become one of the solid substantial men of that charming city. He reports business in his line as very brisk and real estate rapidly advancing in price, consequent upon the great rush of eastern people coming into that part of the Golden State. He came via the C. P. R. R. from Dakota where he was winding up some family matters. He was accompanied by Rev. E. A. Healey, of the Wesleyan Methodist Church of the same place, who is also a Canadian, a native of Drayton, Co. Wellington, and who also has been a resident in California for some years, ministering amongst the numerous Canadian colonies to be met with throughout Southern California.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottle 10c. Try it.

Astronomers Coming.

A San Francisco dispatch of the 16th says: A permanent expedition of astronomers is now on its way from Washington, D. C., to Japan, by way of the C. P. R. to Victoria. Professor Todd, who has charge of the expedition, endeavored to arrange for transportation by United States lines, but owing to the workings of the Inter-state Commerce law he could not secure the rates which the Canadian Pacific offered. The contract was made to carry the party and baggage to Victoria and return. At Victoria they will connect with the new steamship Abyssinia for Yokohama. The expedition is sent out by the nautical almanac branch of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department.

Ex-Speaker Murray has been appointed municipal commissioner for Manitoba.

The Toronto builders have acceded to the demands of the workmen for increased wages and the men have returned to work.

Beatrice Gilet, a beautiful Hamilton girl, aged 16, was shot and killed by Alfred Hancock, a young Englishman. Hancock claims the shooting was accidental.

A terrible explosion of a dynamite cartridge occurred at Chattanooga in the mines on Tuesday. Five men were killed and many wounded.

A land slide on El Pedro farm in Concordia, Panama, buried Senor Pedro Aristripo, his wife and nine children, and the servants in the house. In all sixteen persons were killed.

The ship laborers at Quebec remain masters of the situation, and the reign of terror is complete.

PERSONALS.

President Todd, of the Board Trade, is on the mainland.

Mr. J. Brown, of Harrison Lake Hot Springs, left for home this morning.

Mr. R. P. Rithet went to Burrard Inlet by the Yosemite this morning.

Mr. F. G. Wright, formerly a school teacher here, returned from the Sound to-day to spend the jubilee.

Rev. W. W. Percival and family were in Winnipeg last Monday on their way to Toronto.

Mr. Napoleon Sabin and wife were amongst the Sound passengers to-day from the south. Mrs. Sabin returns with her health greatly improved, much to the delight of her friends.

The Rev. Dr. Reid and Miss Reid arrived this morning from the Harrison Hot Springs. The train was delayed eight hours in consequence of an accident in the mountains. The reverend gentleman is now in excellent health and speaks favorably of the springs.

Mr. Dan. Mills returned yesterday from a brief sojourn at Vancouver, which he had not seen since last fall. So pleased was he with the progress that city is making, and its future prospects, that, it is said, he made a considerable purchase of land in the C. P. R. R. section of that city.

Messrs. H. Bolster, J. R. Taylor and J. B. Woods, real estate men from Spokane Falls, were passengers by the Sound steamer to-day. These are Canadians, and are known far and near as rustlers of the first degree. They came over to Victoria to join in the Jubilee festivities with their numerous friends in the capital and other parts of the province. They will remain in the city for a week.

Passengers by the Geo. E. Starr today: H Bolster, J R Taylor, J B Wood, F G Wright, Mrs G Cooper, B F Ball and wife, G Middleton and wife, Mrs Dillenberg, Miss Williams, J Ball and wife, A G Williams, C S Seiseeman, J McCurdy, H Clark and wife, Wolfe, N Gates, Smith, J Nolan, E Gates, Miss Case, R Prosser, J S Bremer and wife, Mrs Russell, Miss Barron, Miss Williams, Allenton, Tierney, Mrs Gilmore, W P Ready, Mrs Cassier, Fenton, N Sabine and wife, J F Atloway, J Franklin, Capt Hatfield, G P Hall, J White, N B Looman, R Grahame, M Norton.

MARINE.

The bark Escort, Captain Waterhouse, is now at Moodyville, loading lumber for South America.

The bark Titania, Capt. Dunn, from London, to Victoria with general cargo for the H. B. Co., was spoken April 26 in lat. 14 S., 36 W.

The bark Garwock, from London for Victoria, consigned to R. Ward & Co., has the cement on board for the new hydrants.

The barge Letitia, formerly of Port Townsend, 29 tons register, was purchased the other day by a party of Indians from Barclay Sound. The Letitia was remeasured and surveyed by Mr. Walter Walker, of this city, prior to her changing the Stars and Stripes for the Union Jack.

Some improvements are being made to the cabin of the Abyssinia. It is understood that when the vessel reaches Hong Kong a large addition will be made to the cabin accommodation, which is much too small for the traffic.

A number of the firemen aboard the steamship Abyssinia refused to do work Thursday, some complaining that they were sick, others saying that they had no intention of going back to work on any condition. The affair was settled.

Coaxing Better than Scratching.

Miss Emma Frye, eldest daughter of Mr. George Frye, of H. M. Customs, gives promise of becoming a clever artist. Already the works from her pencil are pronounced by critics to possess great merit. A crayon sketch, entitled "Coaxing is Better than Scratching" being a copy of a drawing, appeared in the Illustrated London News, which is her latest production. The picture represents a young girl of four years playing with a cat which is standing on a table coaxing the little maiden to give it a basin of milk which she is carrying in her hands. The feline is exceedingly well executed, so is also the child, whose look and carriage is natural and true to life. It is an exceedingly well executed drawing and Miss Frye has every reason to feel elated over her effort. She has the eye and taste of a true artist and it is likely Victorians will yet hear more of her in this respect.

Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M.

A considerable number of the Masonic fraternity of the city went to Nanaimo to-day, by train, to attend the annual communication of Grand Lodge which opens its session there this afternoon.

THE ISLAND RAILWAY.

The proposal made by R. DUNSMUIR, Esq., M. P. P., President of the Island Railway, at the conference with the City Council, will not, we apprehend, meet with opposition, excepting probably from certain property owners who may be averse to railway trains passing to and fro in close proximity to their premises. The extension of the Island Railway from the present terminus at Russell's Station to a certain point in the city would, most unquestionably, be more convenient to travelers and business men, and more advantageous to the company. The proposition, in brief, is to extend the line from the present terminus to the arm, which will be spanned by a swing bridge, and thence up Cormerant street. All that the company asks from the corporation is the right of way across and along the streets to be traversed, and, judging by the expressions of the delegation, this will be readily obtained.

The present terminus is too far removed from the center of the city, being at least a mile and a half from the post-office and outside of the city limits. Its remoteness adds greatly to the expense of transportation of freight, increases the cost of traveling, and is more inconvenient in every way than it ought to be. It was a mistake to place the depot in its present position, but we believe the location was always considered as a temporary one, and that an arrangement such as is now proposed has always been in contemplation by the President, who is astute enough to know that the business of the line will be augmented if it is made more accessible.

Now that the Indian reserve is to be abandoned, it will not be required by the company for terminal facilities, and its transfer by the Dominion Government to the railway company may not take place. This land, however, should be utilized for some purpose other than as a camping ground for a few Indians, and its sale by public competition, with a view to its utilization for residential purposes, would be the proper disposition to make of it.

Although THE TIMES has had occasion to differ from Mr. DUNSMUIR on many questions, and very probably will be compelled to disagree with him in the future, we have always testified to his enterprise and shrewdness as a business man and to his public spirit as a citizen. As placed before us now, the proposed extension, when carried out, will unquestionably be mutually advantageous to the city and to the railway company.

AN INCONTROVERTIBLE FACT.

It would unfortunately (?) seem to be true that our venerable and respected morning contemporary was "a little off" when he advanced the argument as "an incontrovertible fact" that the China steamers must call at Victoria to land their coolie passengers, as this city, he solemnly affirmed, was the only port of entry under the Restriction Act. If it was "an incontrovertible fact," how does it happen that the Abyssinia did not come into our harbor and unload the Chinese passengers she had on board, and how comes it, if this is the only port of entry, that Vancouver is one also? Out excellent contemporary was doubtless carried away by the extraordinary discovery he had just made, and in the exhuberance of his elation cackled like a spring chicken at the success of its first supreme effort. The Abyssinia not only did not call to land Chinamen, as the Colonist said she must do under the law, but she went on to Vancouver and transhipped them there. It has transpired since that these steamers will call here, going and coming, for freight and passengers, and it will not be necessary, as our contemporary implied that it might be, to petition the Dominion Government to enforce the provision of the Restriction Act in order that Victoria interests might be protected. A better illustration of the saying about a drowning man catching at a straw could not well be given, and the absurdity of the "incontrovertible fact" has made the Colonist appear very ridiculous to outsiders. Our object now in directing attention to the "incontrovertible fact" is not for the purpose of calling public attention to the blunder, but rather that being impressed with the effect of its error, we might request our contemporary to be more careful of the standing of our city in the future.

It appears that Federation of the Empire is not quite so new a scheme as many in these days may think it to be. The idea of a union of all the colonies of Great Britain is at least sixty years old, as may be seen from the following extract from a copy of the Quebec Star of 1828, which has been unearthed by a valued correspondent: "We understand that with the other papers sent down to the House of Commons, respecting the Canadas, there was sent a plan for the general confederation of the British Colonies which was laid before ministers, when the question of these two provinces was under discussion."

THE NANAIMO HORROR

The Inquest Resumed--Evidence Taken.

No Cause as Yet Assigned for the Explosion.

NANAIMO, 16th June, 1887.—The Coroner's inquest on the late explosion reopened at 2 p. m. in the Court House, Nanaimo, Mr. Eberts representing the Crown, Mr. Drake the Vancouver Coal Company, and Mr. Young the Knights of Labor. The jury having been called,

James Knight, sworn, deposed: Am now farming, but have been mining; was working for V. Coal Co. on day of explosion in the morning shift in No. 3 south level in stall 2 on map. My partner was J. Williams; Burns and Dawson killed in the explosion worked in the night shift. Have been mining four or five years; have worked in the mine. The ventilation of the mine seemed very good, and there was a strong current of air; I never came across or heard of gas to amount to anything. Worked in stall for two and a half months before explosion; never worked in Diagonal slope; sometimes there would be gas from a "feeder." Don't know where Malpass or Bradley worked; know where Malcolm worked. Have heard that one shift in New slope had to leave on account of gas; when I got home I heard so. Never heard of complaint being made to manager of want of ventilation. Mine was dry at face of my stall, though it was wet in the level below, distant about 100 feet or less than that. My stall is about 300 yards from Level No. 3; it is about 25 yards from level to face of my stall. Have never been in Diagonal slope; no gas in my place. Quite a little dust rose when a shot was fired. Have had no experience in explosion of coal dust. From Main slope to No. 3, where I worked, is about 150 yards. When in No. 3 Level three or four months ago never noticed dust; would have done so if there was any. My stall is quite dusty when shovelling, but the air soon expelled it. Face of my stall perfectly dry; occasionally found a damp hole when boring, but not often; as a rule it was pretty dry. There would be more or less dust, according to the shot fired. Gas did not accumulate from feeder, and feeder disappeared when shot was fired.

Mr. Griffiths, recalled by Mr. Young, sworn, deposed: I fired shot and lighted gas in Cross-cut; shot was fired in cross-cut. A little gas had accumulated in roof in little pot hole over timbers at head of Cross-cut, and a little flame ran along roof; usual roof ran from 8 to 12 feet. In some places it was 18 feet, and it was 6½ feet from rails to timbers. The space was filled tight from timbers to roof with anything we could get hold of. There is always vacancy where gas can accumulate, and have seen gas so accumulate, but not enough to hurt. Fired no shot in Main slope that day. Worked in Cross-cut that day. Slope not timbered all the way; free in many places; gas between timbers never amounted to anything at all. Helped to put up the stoppings. Sometimes we filled from top of lagging to roof and sometimes not when we had no material. It would not take much gas to be dangerous. It is 5 yards from level to cross-cut. Hague was working on morning of explosion. It was Hague who fired the shot that I said ignited the gas. I was at top of level when gas ignited, 30 yards up slope. Hague went to next cross-cut above; I saw the gas ignite. The flame extended down the level, it seemed to come down the lagging. It did not reach Hague. It is fifteen feet from face of cross-cut to slope. The flame extended from mouth of cross-cut 10 or 12 feet up slope; three casters, the biggest shot I ever fired. Hague knew the gas ignited that morning. I was working five yards from main slope; thirty yards away from shot and Hagüe was between. The flame did not extend 20 or 30 feet. Have seen shots throw flame a long distance. The shot that ignited the gas was not a blowing-out shot.

John Duca, sworn, deposed—Have mined five years; was working in May in No. 4 stall in No. 5 south main slope. Ventilation pretty good; no complaints. Worked in several places, but never in diagonal. Never encountered gas in main slope; never knew men left on account of gas in main slope; have worked in no stall near James Knight's stall; found gas there sometimes. Knight worked there after me. Never any gas to do harm; not enough to harm men. A Chinaman once ignited gas there; was stopped from working by "fireman" when I ignited gas with my lamp when part of roof came down.

Richard Gibson, deposed—Am overman in one shift; was on afternoon shift on 3rd May and was in explosion; was between Nos. 1 and 2 when explosion took place; heard nothing before explosion; all I remember was when it struck me like a blast of wind. It was no flame; have not much remembrance of what took place after; was unconscious for 1½ hours. Remember going up to the fire in the No. 2 shaft. I am under the manager; ventilation was very good; have 35 years experience as a miner; was twice a day in diagonal; very dry there; about 100 yards of top not so dry; driest from No. 3 down; was often there when shots fired. Never saw explosion of gas when shot fired; am a practical miner; have seen flame extend as high as forty feet, caused by a partly blowing up shot; caused by coal dust left in hole and by powder; never tamped hole with dry dust; always wet. Cannot say what tamping was when flame extended 40 feet; flame was principally due to powder. Have had to get out of way; there was smoke first and then flame. Flame from powder would extend 10 or 15 feet. Have seen it before, not very rare. Some of the miners thought there was too much ventilation. This was my first explosion. Ventilation in diagonal slope about as good as required. I was down to face of diagonal that day; did not hear of gas having caught fire that day. Knew Hague; did not hear of gas catching fire on day mentioned; I was down diagonal at 3 p. m. on 3rd May, and second time down to Tully, about 159 yards from face at 4:30 p. m.; diagonal much drier than the other slopes; worked in Scotland; never worked in such a dry coal mine; have in ironstone mines; when I came up to the fire in the mine there was a large blaze; have no idea how it caught; no gas in diagonal that day that I know of; if there was, would have been reported; saw the fireman about 20 minutes before explosion; he had just come from diagonal; conversed with him; would have reported gas if any; that fireman was killed; he had had considerable experience; there was more or less coal dust in mine except very wet; ventilation would have the effect of drying up mine and make a new element of danger; would drive away gas but raise dust; was not present when mine was watered; was down diagonal to-day to face of slope; I saw a hole on face of diagonal slope that looked very dangerous; did not notice the hole before explosion; such a hole would be dangerous because place not prepared for such a shot; they have to prepare the coal for a shot by proper cutting; there was not such cutting on face; Hague, jr., and Lyons, were working there; they were experienced miners. If shot effective would have saved them a great deal of trouble; I always prevent such a shot being fired; if in my power such a shot is nearly sure to blow out; my duty is to see place secure and in working order; mine very well found for protection of human life; managers save no expense; every attention paid to my suggestions; I always encouraged men to report gas; no complaints from men on day of explosion; never struck me coal dust was dangerous. Remember explosion on Queen of Pacific sometime ago; that explosion did not alarm me; did not form any opinion about it. No. 4 was watered and three or four stalls in No. 3; did not know reason for watering, but think it was to keep down coal dust; know how stoppings are put in; examine them regularly; last time about a week before explosion and at that time they were all right; sent men to examine them; they were examined whenever any were leaking or when new ones were put in. Don't think doors would have been better than curtains. Can give no explanation of explosion; did not notice barometer; had no instructions to be more than usually careful that day. Hole I spoke of at face of diagonal was dangerous for curtains and brattice; it would also stagnate the air for some time; I consider dust an element of danger according to dust theory. Remember flame forty feet in old Douglas mine; caused at that time by overcharge of powder; not safe to use dry dust for tamping as it is apt to choke hole made by needle; only objection I form against it. Have seen standing shots; might increase the flames considerably if dry dust was used for tamping. Hole spoken of drilled at an angle and to a distance of 4 or 4½ feet in the face, about 2 feet into solid coal. Flame in that case would have gone right up slope. Shot would have to travel quite a piece before striking roof. Ventilation would tend to dry the dust on roads and make it more dangerous. It never occurred to me that the ventilation was increasing the danger so far as coal dust was concerned. I did not think coal dust was an element of danger before explosion. If I saw anything dangerous would have reported it to Mr. McGregor as was my duty. I always see the fireman's marks are attended to; marks are made in prominent places. May be made on a shovel. Fireman's mark would be evidence of his having been there but not of no gas on roof. Never heard any theory about gas at the time of Queen of Pacific explosion. Never associated coal dust and danger together in the mine; never was told why mine was watered. Five feet of air to one of gas will cause explosion; 7 to 10 to one of gas is not dangerous. There is also a point of explosion in which gas cannot be traced. The hole spoken of if extended in an imaginary line would strike timbers before it struck roof. I have spoken of coal dust only in connection with thory advanced since explosion.

Matthew Miller, sworn, deposed:—Worked in No. 1 level about one mile from shaft. Ventilation good there when I left at 2 p. m., 3rd May. Worked in no other level since shaft was finished. Little gas, not as much as you could put in your hat. Ventilation very good; never heard of bad gas. Every man passes the fireman and is told if there is gas. If a man knows of gas, he tells it to the fireman. No stopping of men by fireman a week or ten days before explosion.

Wm. Miller, sworn, deposed:—Am engine driver in No. 2, looking after fan, &c., on day of explosion; fan going 31 revolutions a minute; regulated by governor; could travel faster; the speed was about as usual. I was at No. 2 at donkey engine when explosion took place. John Curry, my brother, and Jerry Sullivan, were in engine house when I got there. About 7 minutes between explosion and time, I left; for about 10 minutes fan ran faster than 31; then she was slowed down; don't know who gave orders to do so. Everything was in confusion and the fire took place almost immediately; I heard no signals. I staid by the engine until driven away by fire. I did not ask who gave order to accelerate speed of fan.

Here Mr. Eberts explained to jury and coroner the impossibility of compelling Mr. Prior to go down the mine as an expert, but that Mr. Dick, Inspector of Mines, would do so and give as accurate information as was possible.

Inquest adjourned to 10 a. m. on 17th.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

Condensed into Brief and Pithy Paragraphs.

Advices from India say 500 men of the garrison at Herat mutinied on the 9th inst. A short, sharp fight ensued in which thirty loyal and fifty rebel troops were killed. The mutineers fled but most of them were captured.

The Earl of Aberdeen, now in San Francisco, said to a deputation that waited upon him last Wednesday, that he would never be in favor of the separating of Ireland from England, yet he favored that form of self-government which would be consistent with "Imperial unity."

Mrs. Porter Ashe was on Tuesday granted a divorce from her husband by Judge Armstrong. Mrs. E. B. Crocker, her mother, has been appointed guardian of little Alma, who was the innocent cause of so much trouble in the Los Angeles courts a few months ago.

One hundred asylums in the United States and Canada are represented in the Association of Medical Superintendents of American institutions for the insane, which began its session at Detroit, Tuesday. This is the forty-first annual meeting. About sixty superintendents are in the city.

Dispatches from various fishing centres in Nova Scotia report the whole coast lined with American mackerel seiners. Two Yankee vessels have thrown seines among the nets of local fishermen near Whitewood, and have destroyed them, and one vessel made a haul of 75 barrels, and another 80 barrels of mackerel within a mile and a half of the shore.

A revolt is imminent in Honolulu. The people have become exasperated at the King's action in fortifying the palace walls and taking in supplies of ammunition there, and the American and British residents have appealed to their respective governments for protection. Rev. Dr. J. A. Cruzan, who had been in Honolulu several years, said: "When I left Honolulu on the 7th the place was in a condition of seething discontent. Everybody in the islands had agreed that some change ought and must at once take place in the mode of government."

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the living membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Canadian Standard.

CHAPTER III.

WHO CLAIMED IT.

THE fog had already closed in on Monterey, and was now rolling, a white, billowy sea above, that soon shut out the blue breakers below. Once or twice in descending the mountain Concho had overhung the cliff and looked down upon the curving horse shoe of a bay below him—distant yet many miles. Earlier in the afternoon he had seen the glittering cross on the white-faced Mission flare in the sunlight, but now all was gone. By the time he reached the highway of the town it was quite dark, and he plunged into the first fonda at the wayside, and endeavored to forget his woes and his weariness in aguardiente. But Concho's head ached, and his back ached, and he was so generally distressed that he bethought him of a medico—an American doctor—lately come into town, who had once treated Concho and his mule with apparently the same medicine, and after the same heroic fashion. Concho reasoned, not illogically, that if he were to be physicked at all he ought to get the worth of his money. The grotesque extravagance of life, of fruit and vegetables in California was inconsistent with infinitesimal doses. In Concho's previous illness the doctor had given him a dozen four-grain quinine powders. The following day the grateful Mexican walked into the doctor's office—cured. The doctor was gratified until, on examination, it appeared that, to save trouble, and because his memory was poor, Concho had taken all the powders in one dose. The doctor shrugged his shoulders and—altered his practice.

"Well," said Dr. Guild, as Concho sank down exhaustedly in one of the doctor's two chairs, "what now?" Have you been sleeping again in the tule marshes, or are you upset with commissary whisky? Come, have it out."

But Concho declared that the devil was in his stomach, that Judas Iscariot had possessed himself of his spine, that imps were in his forehead, and that his feet had been scourged by Pontius Pilate.

"That means 'blue mass,'" said the doctor, and gave it to him—a bolus as large as a musket ball, and as heavy.

Concho took it on the spot, and turned to go.

"I have no money, Senor Medico."

"Never mind. It's only a dollar, the price of the medicine."

Concho looked guilty at having gulped down so much cash. Then he said timidly:

"I have no money, but I have got here what is fine and jolly. It is yours." And he handed over the contents of the precious tin can he had brought with him.

The doctor took it, looked at the shivering volatile mass, and said: "Why, this is quicksilver!"

"Concho laughed. "Yes, very quick silver, so!" and he snapped his fingers to show its sprightliness.

The doctor's face grew earnest. "Where did you get this, Concho?" he finally asked.

"It ran from the pot in the mountains beyond."

The doctor looked incredulous. Then Concho related the whole story.

"Could you find the spot again?"

"Could you find that spot again?"

"Madre de Dios, yes. I have a mule there; may the devil fly away with her!"

"And you say your comrades saw this?"

"Why not?"

"And you say they afterward left you—deserted you?"

"They did, Ingraise!"

The doctor arose and shut his office door. "Hark ye, Concho," he said, "that bit of medicine I gave you just now was worth a dollar. It was worth a dollar because the material of which it was composed was made from the stuff you have in that can—quicksilver or mercury. It is one of the most valuable of metals, especially in a gold mining country. My good fellow, if you know where to find enough of it, your fortune is made."

Concho rose to his feet.

"Tell me, was the rock you built your furnace of red?"

"Si, Senor."

"And brown?"

"Si, Senor."

"And crumbled under the heat?"

"As to nothing."

"And did you see much of this red rock?"

"The mountain mother is in travail with it."

"Are you sure that your comrades have not taken possession of the mountain mother?"

"As how?"

"By claiming its discovery under the mining laws, or by pre-emption?"

"They shall not."

"But how will you, single handed, fight the four; for I doubt not your scientific friend has a hand in it?"

"I will fight."

"Yes, my Concho, but suppose I take the fight off your hands. Now, here's a proposition: I will get half a dozen Americanos to go in with you. You will have to get money to work the mine—you will need funds. You shall share half with them. They will take the risk, raise the money, and protect you."

"I see," said Concho, nodding his head and winking his eyes rapidly. "Bueno!"

"I will return in ten minutes," said the doctor, taking his hat.

He was as good as his word. In ten minutes he returned with six original locaters, a board of directors, a president, secretary, and a deed of incorporation of the "Blue Mass Quicksilver Mining Co." This latter was a delicate compliment to the doctor, who was popular. The president added to these necessary articles a revolver.

"Take it," he said, handing over the weapon to Concho. "Take it; my horse is outside; take that, ride like h——l and hang on to the claim until we come!"

In another moment Concho was in the saddle. Then the mining director loped into the fog.

"I hardly know," said Dr. Guild, doubtfully, "if, in your present condition, you ought to travel. You have just taken a powerful medicine," and the doctor looked hypocritically concerned.

"Ah,—the devil!" laughed Concho, "what is the quicksilver that is in to that which is out? Hoops, la Mula!" and, with a clatter of hoofs and jingle of spurs, he was presently lost in the darkness.

"You were none to soon gentlemen," said the American alcalde, as he drew up before the doctor's door. "Another company has just been incorporated for the same location, I reckon."

"Who are they?"

"Three Mexicans—Pedro, Manuel and Miguel—headed by that d—d cock-eyed Sydney duck, Wiles."

"Are they here?"

"Manuel and Miguel, only. The others are over at Tres Pinos lally-gaging Reconmon and trying to rope him in to pay off their whisky bills at his grocery."

"If that's so we needn't start before sunrise, for they're sure to get roaring drunk."

And this legitimate successor of the grave Mexican alcaldes, having thus delivered his impartial opinion, rode away.

Meanwhile, Concho the redoubtable, Concho the forturiate, spared neither riata nor spur. The way was dark, the trail obscure and at times even dangerous; and Concho, familiar as he was with these mountain fastnesses, often regretted his sure-footed Francisquita. "Care not, O Concho," he would say to himself, "'tis but a little while, only a little while, and thou shalt have another Francisquita to bless thee. Eh, shipjack, there was fine music to thy dancing. A dollar for an ounce—'tis as good as silver, and merrier." Yet for all his good spirits he kept a sharp lookout at certain bends of the mountain trail; not for assassins or brigands, for Concho was physically courageous, but for the Evil one, who, in various forms, was said to lurk in the Santa Cruz range, to the great discomfort of all true Catholics. He recalled the incident of Ignacio, a muleteer of the Franciscan friars, who, stopping at the Angelus to repeat the credo, saw Lucbel plainly in the likeness of a monstrous grizzly bear, mocking him by sitting on his haunches and lifting his paws, clasped together, as if in prayer. Nevertheless, with one hand grasping the reins and his rosary and the other clutching his whisky flask and revolver, he fared on so rapidly that he reached the summit as the earlier streaks of dawn were outlining the far-off Sierran peaks. Tethering his horse on a strip of table land, he descended cautiously afoot until he reached the bench, the wall of red rock and the crumbled and dismantled furnace. It was as he had left it that morning; there was no trace of recent human visitation. Revolver in hand, Concho examined every cave, gully and recess, peered behind trees, penetrated copses of buckeye and manzanita, and listened. There was no sound but the faint soughing of the wind over the pines below him. For a while he paced backward and forward with a vague sense of being a sentinel, but his mercurial nature soon rebeled against this monotony, and soon the fatigues of the day began to tell upon him. Recourse to his whisky flask only made him the drowsier, until at last he was fain to lie down and roll himself up tightly in his blanket. The next moment he was sound asleep.

His horse neighed twice from the summit, but Concho heard him not. Then the brush crackled on the ledge above him; a small fragment of rock rolled near his feet, but he stirred not. And then two black figures were outlined on the crags beyond.

"Si-i-i!" whispered a voice. "There is one lying beside the furnace." The speech was Spanish, but the voice was Wiles'.

The other figure crept cautiously to the edge of the crag and looked over. "It is Concho, the imbecile," said Pedro, contemptuously.

"But if he should not, be alone, or if he should waken!"

"I will watch and wait. Go you and affix the notification."

Wiles disappeared. Pedro began to creep down the face of the rocky ledge, supporting himself by chemisal and brushwood.

The next moment Pedro stood beside the unconscious man. Then he looked cautiously around. The figure of his companion was lost in the shadow of the rocks above; only a slight crackle of brush betrayed his whereabouts. Suddenly Pedro flung his serape over the sleeper's head, and then threw his powerful frame and tremendous weight full upon Concho's upturned face, while his strong arms clasped the blanket pinioned limbs of his victim. There was a momentary upheaval, a spasm and a struggle; but the tightly rolled blanket clung to the unfortunate man like cerements.

There was no noise, no outcry, no sound of struggle. There was nothing to be seen but the peaceful, prostrate figures of the two men darkly outlined on the ledge. They might have been sleeping in each other's arms. In the black silence the stealthy tread of Wiles in the bush above was distinctly audible.

Gradually the struggles grew fainter. Then a whisper from the crags:

"I can't see you. What are you doing?"

"Watching!"

"Sleeps he?"

"He sleeps!"

"Soundly?"

"Soundly."

"After the manner of the dead?"

"After the fashion of the dead!"

The last tremor had ceased. Pedro rose as Wiles descended.

"All is ready," said Wiles; "you are a witness of my placing the notifications!"

"I am a witness."

"But of this one?" pointing to Concho. "Shall we leave him here?"

"A drunken imbecile—why not?"

Wiles turned his left eye on the speaker. They chanced to be standing nearly in the same attitude they had stood the preceding night. Pedro uttered a cry and an imprecation, "Carramba! Take your devil's eye from me! What me you! Eh—what?"

"Nothing, good Pedro," said Wiles, turning his blank right cheek to Pedro. The infuriated and half frightened ex-vaquero returned the long knife he had half drawn from its sheath, and growled surlily:

"Go on, then! But keep thou on that side, and I will on this." And so, side by side, listening, watching, distrustful of all things, but mainly of each other, they stole back and up into those shadows from which they might, like evil spirits, have been poetically evoked.

A half hour passed, in which the east brightened, flashed and again melted into gold. And then the sun came up haughtily, and a fog that had stolen across the summit in the night arose and fled up the mountain side, tearing its white robes in its guilty haste, and leaving them fluttering from tree and crag and scar. A thousand tiny blades, nestling in the crevices of rocks, nurtured in storms and rocked by the trade winds, stretched their wan and feeble arms toward Him, but Concho, the strong, Concho the brave, Concho the light hearted snake not for stirred.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Boating Suits at Jeffree's.

—Kurtz's Jubilee Cigars are now ready.

—John Welch, who escaped from the New Westminster gaol, is still at large.

—A large assortment of summer ties now opening at Jeffree's.

—A clean slate at the Police Court today.

—Men's and Boys' Holland Coats, at Jeffree's.

—The W. U. wires were down again today between the boundary and Seattle.

—Money saved by having your plans made by FISHER, the ARCHITECT

—The wreckers are at work on the Barnard Castle and hope to have her afloat in a few days.

—For a delicious MILK PUNCH or a genuine COCKTAIL go to the Pritchard House.

—Photographic views along the line of the C. P. R. in B. C., for sale at R. MAYNARD'S, Douglas St.

—The recent bush fires disorganized about 15 miles of telegraph wires in the mountains along the line of the Canadian Pacific.

—The market is almost destitute of salmon. The continued high water is proving very detrimental to fishing in the Fraser.

—A well selected stock of ENGLISH WALKING STICKS, LAWN TENNIS goods and Spalding BASE BALL GOODS, at J. BANNISTER'S, Fort street, near Douglas.

—Ten cars of eastern freight arrived Thursday morning. Among this freight is a car-load of iron work consigned to Larkin & Connolly, Esquimalt.

—Awake, O Happy Nation! National song and chorus, composed in commemoration of Her Majesty's Jubilee For sale at M. W. WAITT & Co.'s.

—John Harris, who stabbed "Cariboo" Joe on the 7th at the Gladstone Inn, New Westminster district, has been sent up for trial. Joe has recovered.

—No need of spoiling your hands or injuring your finest fabrics, if you will use Pendray & Co.'s "QUEEN JUBILEE SOAP."

—The steamer Evangel will leave Seattle early Monday morning for this port with a large number of excursionists to attend the Jubilee festivities.

—CLEAR THE TRACK—Give Pendray & Co.'s QUEEN JUBILEE SOAP a show; it is the best ever offered to the public as a laundry and toilet soap combined; try it.

—Two disreputable half-breed women were to be observed last evening driving in a buggy through the streets at a break-neck speed, utterly regardless of pedestrians and little children.

—Tomb and Headstones, Monuments, in Marble, imported and local Granite, Mantle pieces and Wash Stands in Marble, artistically executed, and at reasonable rates, at George Rudge's Marble Works, Douglas street, Victoria. Call and see specimens of work.

—Call and see our fine mouldings, all latest patterns, steel engravings and latest pictures. We make a specialty of mounting pictures, Jos. SOMMERS, Government St.

—The Yosemite arrived from Vancouver at 3 o'clock this morning. The passengers, mails and baggage were landed at once, after which she left again for the terminal city.

—D. R. MUNRO, General S. S. Agent for Cunard, Guion, Albany, Dominion, Inman and all S. S. Co.'s. Prepaid passages at most favorable rates. Every berth secured on sale.

—Athletic Suits at Jeffree's.

—The purser of the Elder refused to take one of the Chinese that arrived by the Abyssinia. The scars on his head did not correspond with the brands on his bill of lading. Consequently he will remain in British Columbia.

—NEW ARRIVALS—Gents' English leggings in great variety; also DAY & MARTIN'S celebrated blacking, in tins and bottles, at Erskine's Boot and Shoe Emporium, corner Government and Johnson, St.

—Walter Miller, son of Mr. Miller, the Vancouver postmaster, fell from the C. P. R. wharf, and being unable to swim, would have been drowned had not a man, named Charles Seydone, gallantly jumped in and saved him.

—Dr. A. C. West, dentist, will for the present occupy dental rooms in Hastings Photographic buildings, Fort street, where his old patrons and all requiring fine dental work, are respectfully invited to call.

—From present indications many in this city will go over to Tacoma for the celebration of July 4th, 5th and 6th. The affair is going to be on a gigantic scale, $10,000 being already subscribed for expenses and prizes.

—The Geo. W. Elder, which sailed from Vancouver on Thursday, carried the following cargo: Sixteen bales of duck, 17 bales dry goods, 200 barrels soap, 300 barrels oil, 15,000 bundles staves and hoops, 15 pkgs dry goods, 38 Chinamen, who arrived on the Abyssinia.

—Mr. Donald McKay has been notified officially by the Horse Guards that he can appear in military uniform on the occasion of the celebration of Her Majesty's Jubilee; consequently he will appear next week in the garb of the Gael, which so well becomes that gentleman.

—Captain Jagers, by the Saturna, last night, brought to the city a quantity of iron ore rock from the Richards mine at Sooke. It is said specimens have already been sent abroad to be analyzed and that the result is so satisfactory that a company is to be formed to work the mine and establish a smelter near this city.

—Donald E. McGregor has gone up the coast with several representative men from the party of Norwegian immigrants who returned from Valdez Island disappointed. This incident ought to be a lesson to our paternal government. If they are not ready to receive immigrants it would be more honorable to them to incur no expense in bringing them to the province.

—Section 4 containing that "obnoxious" clause of the Inter-state Commerce law, relative to long and short hauls, which was suspended for seventy-five days, comes into effect again July 7th.

—Mr. Herbert Kent, of Waitt & Co.'s music store, Government street, has converted sets of musical escouses into a V. R. with a crown in the centre. The design is a pretty one and attracted attention.

—The Beaver in bringing a tow of logs for Mr. W. P. Sayward's mill into the harbor this morning ran on a reef where she remained until floated off at high tide. She also ran into the wharf of the H. B. Co., but as her speed was slow she committed no serious damage. Small craft in the vicinity began to move out of her way at a lively rate fearing annihilation by the pioneer steamer of the Pacific Coast.

—The C. P. R. has issued a new folder which shows the position occupied by Canada on the face of the globe. Asia, Africa, Europe, America and Australia are also shown. Victoria, Vancouver, Yokohama, Shanghai, Hongkong, Brisbane, Sydney and Melbourne, as well as the Eastern Canadian cities, are brought out in prominent letters, and the lines connecting these points are clearly indicated.

Incoming Tourists.

Telegrams are being received at the leading hotels of the city securing rooms for the jubilee week. These are principally from parties residing in the Sound cities and in Portland. Cheap rates are offered by the O. R. & N. Co. by way of round trip tickets at one fare from Tacoma, Seattle and Port Townsend, coming over on the 21st and 22nd and good for returning up to Saturday following. The round trip rates are placed at $4 from Tacoma, $3 from Seattle and $2 from Port Townsend. Arrangements have been made whereby the steamers will leave these ports at an early hour so as to enable the excursionists to reach Victoria early in the day to participate in the days festivities. From the mainland there will also be a large number of visitors, to say nothing of the number who are now on their way hence from Winnipeg. It is to be hoped citizens generally will decorate their premises as well as make a liberal display of bunting on that occasion.

The High School.

The junior division roll of honor was omitted in our report of the closing exercises at the High School yesterday. It was as follows:

Proficiency—R. Brodrick; deportment, Miss G Withrow; punctuality and regularity, J C McLagan.

Miss Pope on behalf on the school presented Miss A. Hicks, the organist, with a handsome album. This young lady read the last issue of the Girls' Own Paper in a satisfactory manner, and for which she was heartily applauded. The Leisure Hour was read by Master Gibbs. It was an exceedingly creditable effort.

Have Arrived.

The machinery for the oatmeal mill to be erected by Mr. Peter Milne, at Gorden Head, arrived by the Hunsquina, and it is now on the ground. The building is in process of erection. The mill will be a steam one. The engine and boiler were secured last fall from the establishment of the Messrs. Wilson of this city. The mill will be in operation early in the fall. If there are not enough oats raised in the district to supply the mill arrangements have been made to import them from the Sound.

The Jubilee Saloon.

This evening Messrs. Decker and Smith will have their new Jubilee saloon, late the Union saloon, Johnson street, so far advanced in renovation as to be able to give their many friends a welcome. Nothing has been spared to make the place the most attractive in the city. The John Wieland lager and other local beers will be kept. As both young men are experts in the beer line a first-class glass of beer may be obtained at only 5 cents per glass. Give the boys a call.

Silver in Kootenay.

A dispatch of the 15th from Sand Point, Idaho, says: The first shipment of silver ore into the United States from British Columbia was to-day made from Kootenay, a flag station four miles east of this point on the Northern Pacific railroad. The ore goes to Montana for reduction, and runs about 400 ounces of silver per ton. It was shipped from the Kraso mine, on Kootenay Lake, British Columbia, by one of the owners, A. D. W. Wheeler, a Butte, Montana, party.

Caledonian Gathering.

The annual picnic of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies will be held in the Agricultural grounds, Beacon Hill, on Monday, July 4th. Extra efforts have been made this year to eclipse all previous affairs. The efficient president of the societies, Capt. Irving, is assisted in making his arrangements by a strong energetic committee, who are determined to do honor to themselves and the land of the "brown heath and shaggy wood."

The Churches.

To-morrow the Rev. J. E. Starr will conduct the services in the Methodist Church, Pandora street. This will be his first appearance in a Victoria pulpit. It is certain a full congregation will be present.

The Rev. Dr. Reid will preach the Jubilee sermon in the Reformed Episcopal Church, Humboldt street, on Sunday evening at the usual hour.

To Interfere.

The Canadian tariff was discussed in the House of Lords last night. Lord Salisbury said that his government would do what it could in the interest of the British manufacturers, but he was not hopeful of accomplishing much, as the Canadian Government was bound to develop its latent resources by a protective policy.

Preparing for the Sham Fight.

This morning a party of marines, numbering 230, from H. M. ships in Esquimalt harbor, marched through the city headed by a fife and drum bound to Beacon Hill Park, where they threw up some breast works and other arrangements for the sham fight next Tuesday. On arriving at the hall a halt was made, and a mug of beer indulged in by those fond of that beverage, whilst the temperate portion partook of lemonade. The band struck up a lively waltz which at once brought the men to their feet and in a short time the floor of the hall was converted into a ball room. All that was lacking was the presence of ladies to give it an enchanting appearance. Mr. Jos. Heywood, in the most generous manner, conveyed a substantial lunch to the men, which was served to them by that gentleman at noon in the Agricultural hall and for which they expressed to him their gratitude for his timely thoughtfulness. They resumed operations and worked with a will to complete the work in hand. On Tuesday next, after the sham fight, the marines, militia and officers, as well as the members of the several bands will be entertained at luncheon in the Agricultural hall, gotten up under the superintendance of Mr. Heywood, who will see that abundence of the best and most substantial the market can produce is provided for the wants of the inner man. The fact that Mr. Heywood has the matter in hand is a guarantee that every one will be more than satisfied.

From the Interior.

Mr. Thorton Fell returned from Kamloops this morning where he was attending the Court of Assize. In the early part of the week it rained for a couple of days. The farmers in the vicinity who are irrigating their land shut off the water, as the showers which fell were better than any artificial damping of the soil. More rain fell, it is said, in this brief period than fell during the past year and a half. Farmers are consequently in great glee, as the prospect for a big crop is said to be excellent. Mr. Fell brought down with him samples of gooseberries and currants from the garden of Mr. John Murray, at Spence's Bridge. The former are larger than a pigeon's egg and the latter resemble good sized marbles. The interior it is evident is well adapted for the growth of fruit. Snow is to be seen on the mountains, whilst the streams are booming, rushing down the mountain sides in vast torrents, jumping from precipice to precipice and making a noise like thunder. The Ashcroft bridge was in peril at one time, but all danger thereto is now believed to be past. The assizes closed on Tuesday. The docket was a light one. Hon. Mr. Justice Walkem then went to Clinton where he will preside over the Court of Assize to be opened next week.

A Close Call.

At 4:30 this afternoon a fire broke out in the roof of the freight shed on Turner, Beeton & Co.'s wharf. Mr. Finlayson, an employee of the firm, and Mr. C. F. Todd were promptly on the roof trying to allay the flames with their hats. A stream was turned on from the Geo. E. Starr, and in a short time the fire was put out, not, however, before a hole was burned through the roof. A few moments more and the building would have fallen a victim to the flames. The damage done was not great.

Black and Tan Cigars,

Attractions at Fulton Market.

Residents of the city, as well as visitors, should not miss the opportunity of visiting Fulton Market, Johnson street, where are to be seen a collection of monkeys, trained; speaking parrots, mocking birds, English thrushes, black birds and sterlings, magpies, and many other species of the singing and feathered tribe. Tourists in want of souvenirs can do no better than give this place a call.

Gladstone Cigars.

The Model Commonwealth.

This is the title of a new journal established at Port Angeles, our nearest neighbor across the Straits, the first number of which has reached us. It is edited by Mrs. Laura E. Hall; is gotten up in octavo form and in every respect is a worthy production, both as regards the letter press matter it contains and the general get up and its mechanism.

Tony Cigars.

Suggestive.

London Truth says the following announcement was placarded on posters in Lisburn, Antrim, where a series of Lent lectures were being given:

ON SUNDAY, APRIL 3RD,
THE REVEREND CANON——
"Descended into Hell."
You are all affectionately invited.

M'lle. Rhea.

With to-night's performance of "The Country Girl" Victoria bids adieu to M'lle. Rhea, who for one week has portrayed society and high comedy roles to perfection. The engagement has been a brilliant artistic success; but financially, not what was expected. The troupe will leave Monday morning for the Sound.

C. P. R. Hotel.

The work on the C. P. R. hotel, Vancouver, is to be pushed forward as rapidly as possible so that it may be ready for occupation on Oct. 1. Fifty carpenters will be put on immediately and the furniture will be ready to be put in as soon as the painting is done.

The Victoria Rifles.

This corps will assemble at the Drill Shed next Tuesday at 1 p. m. in review order, and from thence proceed to Beacon Hill to join the naval and land forces in firing a feu de joie and participating in the sham fight in honor of the Jubilee.

Kootenay Troubles.

The report that the mounted police might not go into Kootenay on account of the expense, is, we are credibly informed, unfounded. Col. Herchmier has gone in to examine and report upon the situation.

Just in Time for the Jubilee.

Ladies' fine kid pump sole boots, slippers and sandals for dancing, in great variety, from Saller, Lewin & Co., of Philadelphia. Bottom prices, at the B C Boot and Shoe Store, opposite post-office. H. MANSELL.

Trotting Race.

Illumination.

Admiral Sir. M. Culme-Seymour requests us to state that H. M. ships will be illuminated Tuesday night, commencing at 9:30.

No Germans Need Apply.

A London dispatch of the 13th says: I learn that the government here view with apprehension the proposal of Germany to provide a line of steamers between Vancouver and Hongkong. When the contract comes before the House it is confidently expected the government will make a concession, enabling the Canadian Pacific to dispense with the foreign proposal and retain the great route for England alone. I know a large number of members who will support a subsidy to the Canadian Pacific." Sir Edward Watkins is working hard in favor of the route.

Cabinet Changes.

A dispatch from Ottawa says that it is definitely arranged that Chapleau will accept the Lieut.-Governorship of Quebec and be succeeded in the cabinet by Senator Lacoste, although Girouard's name is mentioned. Costigan's retirement, it seems, will be coincident with the re-arrangement of portfolios, and probably Curran will be appointed to the comptrollership of excise. The chances are that Bowell be made Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Mr. Landry, of Kent, Solicitor General.

Outgoing Passengers.

By the Geo. W. Elder for San Francisco to-day there sailed from this port R B Powell, Mrs J C Healy and child, E A Healy, A J Wallace, S Mahdar, F A Lount, Mrs Jessie Pierce and child, J N Muir, Mrs J D Muir, A H Walrath, J Canfield, James Stewart and wife, Wm McNeil, Mrs B Humphreys, W H Findley and wife, C Slater, W T Burrows, Miss Wood, R E Gallagher and wife, J W Ward, J F Nicholson and a number of steerage passengers.

Hospital Collections.

To-morrow is "Hospital Sunday" in churches excepting the Christ Church and Presbyterian. The collections will be devoted to the Jubilee Hospital Fund, and it is anticipated that large contributions will be made by the various congregations. If every church-giver will remember, when dropping his or her donation on the plate, that "charity covers a multitude of sins," the result will agreeably surprise all concerned.

JERSEYS! JERSEYS! JERSEYS!—The latest styles received this day at the "Lansdowne House," Yates Street.

Meeting of Cannery Men.

A meeting of the cannery men of the province is being held to-day at Ladner's Landing. The object of the gathering is to discuss the situation and the outlook generally and to arrange on a schedule of prices to be paid for fish as well as to employees in and about the canneries. A considerable number of those interested in the business are present.

Lacrosse.

The Victoria Lacrosse club has selected two teams for a match on Tuesday next at Beacon Hill. Play will begin at 10 a. m. This will be an additional attraction on the Jubilee day.

The Wires.

The telegraph wires are down again to-day, and we are without our usual dispatches. As a subject for discussing and resulting upon we recommend our telegraph service to the Board of Trade.

Consignees.

Per the Geo. E. Starr: McDonald & Co, J D Frye, W W Evans, M Eckert, Neufelder & R, E G Prior, Hastings S M Co, J R Kerr, Redgrave & E, S Leiser, Galbraeth Bro, Van V & Bro.

Farm, NEAR Gordon Head.
Tuesday, June 28, 11 a. m.
PURSUANT to an order of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, made herein and dated the 11th day of February 1887, with the approbation of Mr. Justice Walkem, I will sell at my Saleroom, Fort and Langley streets, all the following Freehold and Personal Property, viz:—
14 ACRES of land, being part of Lot No. 1 of Subdivision No. 2 of Section 15, Victoria District, as per plan deposited in the Land Registry office at Victoria, No. 136, with all buildings and improvements thereon consisting of a Five Roomed Cottage, 32x24; a Barn 30x16; 6 Chicken Houses, surrounded by high picket fence, and a garden under crop. About 2½ acres is cleared and under fence. All the buildings are now and in first class order. Also on the property a quantity of Lumber.

73 pieces 4 x 4	— 21 feet long.
160 pieces 1 x 4 x 6	— 21 feet long.
1 piece 12 x 12	— 22 feet long.

And a large quantity of Pickets, 6 feet long.
Also a quantity of Garden and Carpenter's Tools, 1 Platform Spring Wagon, and a Lot of Household Furniture, Bedding, Tables, Chairs, Crockery, Glassware, Stoves, &c., that will be brought in from the Farm the day before sale.
This is a beautifully located piece of Land, about four miles from Victoria, on the Gordon Head Road. There is a lovely view of the Straits and San Juan Island, and a good road to the property. Also a never failing Well of Spring water.
This is a good show for a workingman with a small capital to secure a good home and investment.
